

KAPS is a BSC token on the BEP20 standard with a fixed supply that dedicates nearly 100% of the proceedings collected via its initial sale to the formation of a reserve consisting of stablecoins (BUSD). The project continuously expands this reserve pool over time by dedicating 60% of all future transaction fees to the backing reserve. The KAPS collected through the fees will be subsequently sold on exchanges and directly swapped to BUSD.

The token is used for governance on the discussion forum and rewards its active community members with fee cashbacks.

How it works

The KAPS utility token is used to vote on important decisions related to the further development of the KAPS project and to access the first crypto and blockchain discussion forum with token rewards. The token further acts as an reward mechanism. A transaction fee of 1% is applied, which is split between the Reserve pool and the Reward pools.

KAPS is dedicated towards publishing regular reports of the current backing reserve. The reserve will further be audited by a third party on regular intervals to ensure the utmost degree of decentralization. The BUSD reserve will allow no outgoing transactions unless approved by the custodian. The total supply of KAPS is limited and will never increase.

KAPS conducts an Initial Coin Offering - 100% of the proceedings minus the development costs for the the discussion forum are swapped to BUSD and stored in the Reserve.

KAPS splits the transaction fees into the reserve and the community reward pool. The KAPS collected via transaction fees are sold on exchanges for BUSD.

The BUSD is accumulated in the reserve, which grows over time and increases the price floor of KAPS through a provable reserve. The total supply of KAPS is limited.

The community discusses blockchain and crypto topics in the forum and votes. Top members are rewarded from the community pool at the end of the month.
